List of Impulse Wants

Usually when we want something it's on impulse, something we don't need it – we just want it. By having to write it down and think about it for a week or two will help you decide if it's something that you really need or if you can live without.

Usually when you continually think about it wanting it more than three times it means it is something that will probably be used, but most of the time you won't even remember wanting it!
